Part I. 以下の英文を読み、設問に答えなさい。

Americans love their cars. No car means no (1) get anywhere in the United States. In many states, you can apply (①) a car license when you turn 16. This is one of the reasons why you will often see high school students driving to school. Some freeways¹ have six lanes, and there are many roadside hotels called "motels," typically with parking directly outside. (2) Have a car is something that is (a) absolutely necessary for daily American life.

Did you know the drive-through system (3) create in America? (b) Nowadays, you are able to do a lot of chores² (②) getting out of the car. There are drive-through ATMs, dry cleaners, and pharmacies to pick (③) medication. (c) What is more, there are even drive-through funeral halls and wedding chapels! Drive-throughs work very well for the car-centric culture of the U.S.

This car culture has even been extended to garbage trucks. The truck driver can empty a garbage can at the curb (②) leaving the truck. That is because the truck has large robotic arms that (4) do all the work. More specifically, the arms extend out from the truck and grab the trash can; then the arms shake the can and empty the trash (④) a large collection container. (d) Thanks to America's wide roads, these trucks are quite common.

(2) Have a lot of cars in a country may sound harmful to the environment. However, there have been many efforts (e) put in place to reduce carbon emissions³ in the U.S. (f) For instance, in bigger cities, there is a High Occupancy Vehicle (HOV) lane⁴, aka⁵ a carpool lane⁶, which typically has a big diamond mark on it. This restricts the minimum number of passengers in a car to two people and cuts (⑤) the number of cars on the highway in order (5) decrease traffic congestion⁷ and air pollution.

注：1. freeway 「高速道路」、2. chore 「(家事などの) 雑用」、3. carbon emissions 「炭素排出量」

4. High Occupancy Vehicle lane 「多人数乗車用車線」、5. aka=as known as 「～として知られている」、6. carpool lane 「相乗り車用車線」、7. congestion 「渋滞」
